2. From the Government of India's Office Memo. at page 3 ante it seems that there are three different Honours Diplomas of the Longhborough College(viz. in Civil, Mechanical and Electrical) which are to be recognised as equivalent to the corresponding B.E. degrees(viz. in Civil, Mechanical and Electrical) of the Bombay University for the purposes of recruitment to services under this Government. The note of the J.D.T.E., however, shows that the Honours diploma in Mechanical and Electfical Engineers is a combined Examination conducted by the Longhborough College. So far as P & S.D. can see what the J.D. T.E. intends to convey by his note at page 9 ante is that he sees no objection to the Honours diplomas in Civil, Mechnical and Electrical Engineering awarded by the Langhbourough College as equivalent to the corr-esponding B.E. degrees (viz. B.E.(Civil),B.E.(Mech,) andB.E.(Elecl.) of the Bombay University for the purposes of recruitment to services under this Government. The P.W.D. may see this U.O. and confirm the presumption.

As far as I can see this is corredt.
